

Inflation

For the worlds wealthy, the war in Ukraine is mostly just an excuse for higher profits. Follow the money. Inflation a cynical scam motivated by pure greed. It's not going to the workers and equipment that pump and refine the oil or grow our food or work in our factories. Some of it is going to the mega yacht industry and similar gluttony and bling. Some of it is spent on developing higher production [pollution] capacity. Some of it is going to weapons industry profits. Some of it is invested in the toys and distractions and mind control of high tech. Some of it is just stashed away and left to rot.

All inflation is about capitalism's failure to control greed. The oligarchs who control most of our industries are sucking the life out of our economy. Around the world, most of the world's oligarchs are raking in huge profits and selling us cheap, frivolous, highly polluting crap.

Inflation is a spiral where the rich are always a step ahead. Using the law of supply and demand as an excuse, greed jacks up prices, and in the interim until wages rise to compensate, there's a lot of money to be made. The law of supply and demand? Is greed really a law?

OPEC is substantially supporting Putin's war by raising the price of oil; allowing Russia to sell oil at a discount that countries like India can't afford not to take advantage of. If we drop the price of oil, the world's oil oligarchs won't make as much profit, but oil workers will still have a job. OPEC is founded and sustained by a very destructive greed. We need to tell OPEC where to shove it.

It's not just OPEC. All around the world, most of the money available for investment in our future is controlled by people who desire the power and prestige of money, not the welfare of the community.

Space tourism for the filthy rich is, per capita, the single greatest polluter on the planet. Will the mega yachts confiscated from the Russian oligarchs end up in the hands of capitalist oligarchs at fire sale prices? The largest of the mega yachts are half again the size of the guided missile frigate Moskva, costs millions a year to maintain, and have no purpose beyond insane ego.

An oligarch is an oligarch. Be they capitalist, communist, dictator, or mafia, most of the money they take from the general public is squandered away. They have it. We need it. They took it from us. They're squandering it. Take it back. It's a no brainer.
